MATHEMATICS, SOCIAL SCIENCE AND SCIENCE

Family is very important institution in India and the members of the family are closely knit. Traditionally, while it is mostly the males who are breadearners, women generally take to the household activities, besides rearing children. However, due to widespread modernization and improvement in educational facilities for girls, women now are accepting jobs outside their home and thus contributing financially to the family's income.

Now let us look at the current status of women in our society.

Task 1

Conduct a survey of 10 families in your neighborhood to find out how the household work is shared between male and female members.

Collect the data for the relevant columns from each family.

Table-1

Sl. No. Family	Family size	No. of Male earning members	No. Female earning members	Education qualification of Male earning members.	Education qualification of Female earning members.
1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10

Table-2

Find the answers to the following questions from each family and tick the relevant boxes:

Usually who does the following chores	Male family member	Female family member	Both males and females	Some-one Else (not belonging to the household)
Who does the laundry?
Who shops for groceries?
Who does the household cleaning?
Who prepares the meals?
Who cleans the car?
Who does the gardening?
Who maintains the household budget?
Who makes small repairs around the house?
Who looks after sick family members?
Who helps children with school Home work?

Now count the scores. Every tick equals one point. Count the total score for all females and males in the house. (No need to count scores of some-one else.) If males and females share a task evenly, give a half point to each female and male.

Total Score Female: _____ Points

Total Score Male: _____ Points

Now represent the above obtained information per family in the table given below:

Family no.	Total score (Female)	Total score(Male)
1.
2.
3.
4.

Family no.	Total score (Female)	Total score(Male)
5.
6.
7.
8.
9.
10.
	Grand total	Grand total

1. Represent the obtained data (Total score for male and Female) in the form of double bar graph.
2. Represent the data (size per family) obtained from table -1 in the form of a bar graph.

Answer following questions based on the graphs:

1. Who scored more points, males or females in doing household work?
2. Are there specific tasks for male and female members?
3. Does the family member doing maximum work in the house has a full-time job?
4. Who did laundry the most?
5. Who made small repairs around the house most?
6. Who looked after sick family member the most?
7. Who shopped for groceries the most?
8. Who did household cleaning the most ?
9. Which family member prepared meals most?
10. Do you think that men and women share the household work equally?
11. What can you say about the employment status of men and women?
12. Is there a difference between the role of male and female in a house?
13. Is there a relationship between education qualification and employment of women.
